Message from the President, Patrick Sieg

Dear Rockville Art League artists,

Fall brings more temperate weather and September 1 marks the start of a new Rockville Art League membership year.

Hopefully you have had time to enjoy the summer season, to stay cool and enjoy art.

I look forward to the start of each year and am honored and grateful to be serving as the President of the Rockville Art League again for 2025/2026 and to be serving the members of our art community.

Rob Gale, RAL's Treasurer for the last 10 years, will be leaving that position for this coming year but will continue in an advisory capacity.

The Treasurer's responsibilities will move to a new leader, Helen Wood, who is a current board member and will bring much experience to her new and expanded role.

Like many of you, I am a member of several art organizations. Each organization has benefits to offer but, when I look at our Rockville Art League, I can frankly say that membership in our league is an exceptional value.

With their payment of annual dues every member receives:

- Meetings throughout the year with accomplished and interesting presenters. Our meetings continue to be via Zoom and they are recorded and converted to YouTube for future review (but please join our Zooms live and feel free to contribute with questions and personal insights).
- A monthly newsletter published September through June (thank you Susan Dunnell).
- The privilege of entering two juried member shows and a chance to interact with our juror. The last two years we have welcomed our judges to the in-person Sunday "Meet-The-Artists" events and award presentations.
- Access to other show opportunities including themed shows, displayed at the Glenview Mansion Art Gallery.
- Sponsoring two scholarship opportunities for art students attending Montgomery College.
- Upon request, your personal art website may be linked to our RAL site.

- Knowledge that we are enhancing the art community here in Rockville, Montgomery County, Maryland and the surrounding area.
- And new areas of service throughout the year.

As a bonus, the RAL Board of Directors met in July, and we agreed to keep the annual membership dues for this upcoming year at an affordable $40.

Please renew your membership in our art league. Easy methods for renewing are listed under “Membership” on our website. See details later in this newsletter.

Regarding our Zoom meetings...

- Our September speaker will be art historian Dr. Irina Stotland. We are so lucky to have her back again this year continuing our tradition of having her kick-off our art league’s year. Her Zoom will be on Thursday, September 4th, and her topic will be Romanticism and the Fall of Reason. I learn many new things every time she speaks, and we are lucky to have her present such fascinating topics to our group.
- In October we will hear from abstract artist Steve Loya and see his unique point of view and the whimsical fun he brings to art...I can’t wait.
- In November we welcome back artist, pastelist and oil painter Gonzalo Ruiz Navarro. He has recently returned from several years in Pakistan and hopefully his talk will include learnings from this overseas adventure (and perhaps a demonstration).

And please do yourself a favor and visit the Glenview Mansion Art Gallery and the RAL “Cloud Covers” exhibit...you will thank yourself for making the trip and enjoy this show’s energy. It is up until August 29, 2025.

Amazingly, fall is upon us.

It is not too early to begin thinking about our winter juried show and more details will be in the October newsletter.

“Practice any art, music, singing, dancing, acting, drawing, sculpting, poetry, fiction, essays, reportage, no matter how well or badly, not to get money and fame, but to experience becoming, to find out what’s inside you, to make your soul grow.” Kurt Vonnegut

Thank you for supporting the Rockville Art League, for renewing your membership and for sharing your art, vision, and creativity with our community.

Sincerely,

Patrick Sieg
President

Rockville Art League Speaker Series

We offer six presentations a year – September, October, November, February, March and April.

The presentations this year are on Zoom with the invitations sent out a few days prior and also posted on the website. Please try to join us in real time! The speakers appreciate an audience and plan to allow time for Q&A.

As long as the speaker agrees, the zoom session will be recorded and sent out to members afterwards. Most links to the videos are available on the Rockville Art League's YouTube which you can access by going to the RAL website and clicking the icon for YouTube at the bottom of the page.

Thursday, September 4, 7:00 PM on Zoom: Art Historian Dr. Irina Stotland on *Romanticism and the Fall of Reason

We are delighted to welcome back Dr. Stotland to kick off our RAL speaker series once again! Members will remember her in depth and fascinating presentations on a variety of famous artists from Bonnard to Bosch, Velasquez, Toulouse-Lautrec, Gauguin, Mary Cassatt, The Secrets of Johannes Vermeer, the Ukrainian Avant-Garde, as well as the important American art movement Abstract Expressionism. This time she will offer a presentation on Romanticism and the Fall of Reason.

This presentation will give an overview of the most important painters of Romanticism, Francisco Goya, Eugene Delacroix, J.M.W. Turner, John Constable and Theodore Gericault, and discuss the driving engines of this movement that emerged during the late 18th century. A novel reverence for nature, the supernatural and a fascination with the exotic and mysterious transformed painting. The emphasis on imagination, emotion and individualism continues to resonate with contemporary artists and audiences today making it an enduring and influential art movement in western art.

Los Caprichos, Capricho No. 43: The Dream of Reason Produces Monsters. Etching on paper (Prado, Madrid)

Katherine Nelson Judge's Remarks – Cloud Covers Exhibition

Rockville Art League

I want to begin by thanking the Rockville Art League for inviting me to jury Cloud Covers. It's always a privilege to be part of this thoughtful and generous community. I'm especially grateful to Pat and Lisa Sieg for the opportunity and for the care they bring to organizing these exhibitions.

This was a truly wonderful show—so many strong works, such diversity of style and approach. The theme Cloud Covers is broad and poetic, and the submissions reflected that. Some artists created direct representations of clouds; others used atmosphere more metaphorically. Either way, all of the images had cloud forms present—reminding us just how often we look up at the sky and find something more than just weather.

Clouds are universal, yet deeply personal. We find inspiration in them, peace, sometimes worry. They help us dream or reflect. They show up in our moods and in our memories. As Paulo Coelho once said, "Beautiful sunsets need cloudy skies." I'd add that so do sunrises—and so does art.

Now I'd like to highlight the award recipients and share what drew me to these particular works.

First Place: The Place Between by Paula Zeller (Oil on linen, 14x11)

This powerful work depicts a contemplative woman set against a sweeping cloudscape. The harmony of color, the delicate use of light, and the emotional resonance between the figure and the sky all contribute to a deeply layered and thoughtful image. The repetition of skin tones in the clouds, the upward gaze, and the light breaking through the background all enhance the mood of inner reflection and emotional complexity. This is a piece that speaks across time and circumstance—a universal meditation on being.

Second Place: Boats Under Clouds by Susan Moses (Watercolor on paper, 11x 22)

From the moment I saw this piece, I was drawn in. The stillness of the boats, the reflection of the sky in the water, and the gentle, sunlit atmosphere create a peaceful and meditative scene. The watercolor technique is masterfully handled with strong drawing underneath and a luminous palette. There's a sense of breath and space here that is incredibly soothing.

Third Place: Last Flight for the Day by Nadine Kim (Oil on panel, 9 x12)

This evocative image blends beautiful color transitions with expressive brushwork and light. Birds circle upward into a luminous opening in the clouds—a dynamic and spiritual ascent. The circular motion of the composition adds to the sense of flight and transcendence. I found myself returning to this piece again and again, drawn by its uplifting and poetic quality.

Honorable Mention :

The Farm Before the Storm by Patrick Sieg (Oil on canvas, 18x24)

A strong and grounded piece depicting a local farm just before the weather shifts. The gathering clouds add tension and narrative to the familiar rural landscape, reminding us how much farmers contend with weather and uncertainty on a daily basis.

Field of Clouds by Lisa Sieg (Digital photo, 12x16)

This emotionally resonant photograph features two figures and a dog standing in a harvested field beneath an approaching storm. Their opposing gazes suggest differing perspectives on what lies ahead, making this piece a statement on human resilience and uncertainty.

Lofty Lines by Harriet Gordon (Mixed media, 20x20)

An abstract exploration of cloud forms through elegant line work and a limited, harmonious palette. This piece invites quiet observation and suggests both sky and water—fluid and contemplative, with a compelling balance of geometry and softness.

This stunning photograph captures light breaking through storm clouds over water, offering both visual beauty and emotional depth. The composition evokes a sense of awe and spiritual reflection, reminding us of our place in the vastness of nature.

To all the artists in this show: thank you for sharing your visions. It was truly difficult to select awards from such a rich and varied group of works. Every piece brought something special to the theme—whether introspective, joyful, dramatic, or serene.

Congratulations to each of you and thank you again to the Rockville Art League for your invitation and the opportunity to be part of Cloud Covers. It's always a pleasure to work with this community and to be reminded of the power of art to connect us—across skies, stories, and emotional landscapes.

Enjoy the exhibition and thank you.

Katherine Nelson

Cloud Covers

On Exhibit: June 29 – August 29

Clouds have the power to inspire daydreams and allow for a momentary getaway. Spend some time with your head in the clouds, look for silver linings and you may just find yourself on cloud nine. From the dark and dramatic to light and wispy, they can alter mood, influence a range of emotions and fill us with awe. Familiar, yet ever changing and inspiring, shifting effortlessly in mere moments, assuming shapes, unique textures and otherworldly colors or building into a blustery storm. All this is right outside our doors, day or night. The artists in this show offer their unique creations and show us how extraordinary atmosphere can be. The artists in this show offer their unique creations and show us how extraordinary atmosphere can be. We were honored to have Katherine Nelson as judge.

This beautiful show has received rave reviews from the community and there is still time to enjoy this exhibit. It is on display through August 29.
